Two Humanist Events Worth Attending in October

California Freethought Day

The 24th California Freethought Day will be Sunday, October 12 in Sacramento from 11:00 am to 5:30 pm.

As with every year prior, the 24th California Freethought Day remains entirely free to attend, supported by your optional donation when you register or attend our Fundraising Reception.

It hosts a very interesting line-up of speakers from welcoming remarks from EMCEE, Jonathan Lopez who works for the betterment of the LGBT community in the San Joaquin Valley and performs drag throughout California as Hellen Heels to Nick Fish, president of American Atheists.

Learn more at freethoughtday.org.

Freedom From Religion Foundation

The 48th annual convention of the Freedom From Religion Foundation (FFRF) will be Thursday, October 16 to Sunday the 19th at Myrtle Beach, Florida;

FFRF exists to promote the separation of state and church and educates the public on matters relating to nontheism. It is the nation's largest freethought association with more than 39,000 freethinkers. Its works closely with other organizations to defend the rights of nonbelievers.

The convention has a nation-wide cast of speakers who are active in the battle for reason and humanist values. If it is within your budget it is well worth attending.
